

LANGUAGES_S7 Fall Semester Graduate	LANGUAGES	4 credits Continuous exams English: 50% Second-language: 50%
Prerequisite: None

DSH_2101	English	Language
	Tutorials: 26
The goal of this year is to prepare for the international experience, either academic or internship mobility. Focus will be given to resume and cover letter redaction, Business English, intercultural workshop, the way to speak in professional context or daily life, advanced notions on linguistic aspects. Workshops dedicated to different language certificates can be also suggested.

DSH_2102	German	Language
	Tutorials: 24
The goal is to answer the needs and interests of future engineers. Lectures will not only focus on linguistic aspects, but also help to discover the culture and work in German countries. Communication competencies are focused on, students learn the language by using it. They are trained in speaking, listening, reading and writing in daily-life situations. Students are encouraged to prepare official language certificate internationally recognized, such as Goethe Institute certification.

DSH_2103	Spanish	Language
	Tutorials: 24
In the following of the first-year learning, lectures will lead to an advanced acquisition of the language useful in a professional context. Skills groups (intermediate, advanced) will be made in order to allow a suitable following of the first-year teaching. Language fundamentals are reinforced and completed by more complex linguistic studies. The goal is to develop the communication skills either in a professional context or daily life. Students will have to learn the scientific & technical language used by engineers. Cultural specificities will also be point out. At the end of this second-year learning, the students will speak fluent Spanish, corresponding to a B1 or B2 level in CECRL framework.

	French for international students	Language
	Tutorials: 24
This course allows the students to learn the French language along with its culture.		